Pope Francis'

April Prayer Intention

For the role of women

We pray that the dignity and immense value of women be recognized in every culture, and for the end of discrimination that they experience in different parts of the world.

"Jesus knows we are sinners; he knows we make many mistakes, but he does not give up on joining his life to ours. He knows that we need the Eucharist, because the Eucharist is not the reward of saints, but the bread of sinners. This is why exhorts us:
"Do not be afraid! Take and eat."
~Pope Francis

This weekend we welcome in Baptism Celeste Raquel Bonilla. May the Light of Christ, given in Baptism, shine on Celeste forever. Amen.

Love Without Measure...

A Jewish couple living in Texas decided to participate in a cultural exchange program in which Jews from throughout the world came to visit the United States. So around Christmas time a rabbi from the backwoods of Russia came to live with them for a few weeks. It was their desire to provide the rabbi experiences that he could not have in his native Russia, so they called together some family members and neighbors and took him out to a Chinese restaurant. All during the meal the rabbi spoke in glowing terms of the beauty of North America. At the end of the meal the owner of the restaurant came forward and presented to each diner a small metal Christmas tree ornament as a token of the season. After the owner left, someone pointed out that on the back of the ornament it was written, "Made in India." Everyone had a good laugh. Then they noticed that the rabbi was crying. His hosts became concerned and questioned him whether he was offended because he was given a gift connected to the Christmas holiday. But he shook his head, "No, no," he said "I'm crying tears of joy, joy to be in a country where a Buddhist can give a Jew a Christmas gift made by a Hindu."

The tears of the rabbi were holy tears, and in our hearts we know it. Because regardless of the background or religion all people recognize that when those who are different cooperate, when men and women reach out across borders that separate them, when divisions are healed, God is at work. The Jewish tradition knew this profoundly. The Jewish Bible begins with God creating all things and making all people in God's likeness. The Jewish Torah instructs Jews to love and care for the resident aliens, people of other countries who lived in their midst. They were directed to welcome the stranger. Jesus being a good Jew placed this truth at the heart of this message saying that we who welcome the stranger welcome Him. In today's gospel he uses the image of the shepherd and the sheep, first of all to emphasize his closeness to us and then to make it clear that he has other sheep that do not belong to his fold. In this way, he reveals that God's ultimate intention is to have one fold and one shepherd.

The vision of a humanity united across its divisions is God's vision. All too often we see our faith as a way of connecting God to us, and those we know and love. But God has a wider vision. God's intention is to extend respect and unity across the entire earth. And this vision is not marginal to the Good News but at its center. Because every vision we have of God's kingdom includes all people united in respect and peace.

Now we do not often reflect upon this central part of our faith, because it's so much easier, so much more comfortable, just to stick around with the people who are like us – the people who think the way we do, the people who come from the same background and have the same perspectives. It takes an effort to reach out to someone who is different, to accept someone who seems strange to us. Yet, our faith calls us to do just that. If the Kingdom is to come, then we must be willing to recognize and to welcome those who are strangers to us.

People who are different surround us regularly. We run into them at work or at school or when we shop or go to the movies. We are constantly rubbing elbows with people who are different; different because of their race, because of their religion, because of their sexual orientation, because of their nationality. We must not forget that God sees us in terms of the way we see them. Therefore it is part of our Christian calling to make the decision to reach across the many divides we confront and accept someone who is different, who is stranger to us. This can be done in simple ways like acknowledging someone's presence with a confident, "Good Morning" or "How was your day?" When we do so we are acting with the openness and respect that helps build the Kingdom of God.

It is always more comfortable to remain in our own flock to mill around with sheep that are just like us. But the shepherd whom we love has other sheep. If we intend to serve him, we must be willing to accept those sheep as well. Every time we do so we contribute to God's intention for the world. Every time we welcome someone who is stranger to us, we move closer to the day when there will be one flock and one shepherd.

A Time for Questions.... A Time for Answers....

In reviewing some of the concerns some very important questions were asked that deserve an answer. One had to do with the necessity of the personal greeting at the beginning of the mass and its disruptive nature. In response, I understand the concern but I am convinced that the desire to be welcoming to the stranger is of primary concern. The personal greeting focuses on the stranger and someone who is visiting the parish for the first time or has been away from the church or parish for a long time. Some are still hesitant to return due to the lingering fear of Covid. We have a wonderful reputation as a welcoming parish. May we continue to do all that we can to welcome new people and grow our faith community

May I make another comment to encourage our prayer. In 47 years as a priest I have served in several parishes from rural, urban, suburban, and inner city. In all those parishes there was a regular practice of quiet and silence as people prepared for mass. This was the simple and valued practice that took place without any directive or rule. This is not the practice here as St. Augustine. I invite our community to consider the place of silent prayer as a way of preparing for the Eucharist.

Fr. Bill

"I only know them by name!"

There is this story of a particular census taker who went to the home of a rather poor family in the mountains of West Virginia to gather information. He asked the mother how many dependents she had. She began, "Well, there is Rosie, and Billy, and Luella, Susie, Harry, and Jeffrey. There's Johnny, and Harvey, and our dog, Willie." It was then that the census taker interrupted her and said: "No, ma'am, that's not necessary. I only need the humans." "Ah," she said. "Well, there is Rosie, and Billy, and Luella, Susie, Harry, and Jeffrey, Johnny, and Harvey, and...." But there once again, the census taker interrupted her. Slightly exasperated, he said, "No, ma'am, you don't seem to understand. I don't need their names, I just need the numbers." To which the old woman replied, "But I don't know them by numbers. I only know them by name."

In today's gospel Jesus the good shepherd says that he knows his sheep by name. Introducing himself as the good shepherd of his flock, Jesus knows his sheep and his sheep hear his voice: Just as the Palestinian shepherd s knew each sheep of their flock by name, and the sheep knew their shepherd and his voice, even so Jesus knows each one of us, our needs, our merits and our faults. Of course the knowledge talked of here is not mere intellectual knowing but knowledge that comes from love and leads to care and concern for the other. He loves us as we are, with all our limitations, and he expects us to receive and return his love by keeping his words. He speaks to us at every Mass, through the Bible, through our pastors, through our parents, family and friends and through the events of our lives. "God whispers to us in our pleasures, he speaks to us in our consciences, and he SHOUTS to us in our pain!"

TODAY IS
WORLD DAY
OF PRAYER
FOR VOCATIONS

Update on Arthur Taylor - #A175-637

Arthur was a street kid, growing up on the east side of Cleveland. In 1983, Arthur was wrongfully convicted of shooting Mr. Leach in a foiled robbery attempt. Arthur was scheduled to be executed in 2014 but with the help of the Innocence Project was given life without the possibility of parole. Since that time the individual who shot and killed Mr. Leach has confessed but Arthur has still been denied any type of parole. With the constant prayers and support of the Innocence Project, several other groups and individuals seeking Arthur's release, the following is an update from a recent parole board hearing:

I can hardly believe I am typing these words....Arthur was recommended for parole! Here is how Kathryn, his longtime lawyer present at the hearing, wrote it:

"Recommendation: PAROLE PENDING FULL BOARD DETERMINATION!!!!

This means that the prosecutor and victim's services have 30 days to oppose this. If they do, then the parole board will likely grant a full board determination and that's where the final decision will be made."

According to Kathryn, if there is not opposition then the panel decision today goes into effect and there is no full board determination, However, opposition is expected.

The five person panel of Parole Board members today apparently approved of his plan to go to EDWINS should he be released and they were impressed with his prison record and with the level of community support. Kathryn also said Arthur read his statement "and it was great."

So please, keep praying for the next 30 days that there will be full consensus at the full board hearing to release Arthur. Thanks to all of you who are praying. How great is our God!

Peace,
Pat Takacs, Parishioner

Some Good News

Several months ago we applied to a federal grant program that exists for the purpose of providing fund to help private institutions procure some type of vehicle to help transport people to church or programs to encourage their participation in the community. This grant program seeks to provide additional assistance beyond the public bus service. This includes vehicles that serve the disabled and in particular, people who depend on wheelchairs. Recently, we were notified that St. Augustine's application was accepted and that we will receive $62,000.00. A vehicle will be purchased this summer. Many thanks to Bob Duda and Mary Cosgrove for their efforts in helping us procure this grant money.
